

Walking on the Trailway

Whether you are out for a short walk with the dog, taking your children for a leisurely stroll, or taking part in some strenuous long distance walking, then you can do no better than use the North Dorset Trailway. People in the villages and towns along, or with links to the Trailway have numerous access points onto the Trailway, which offers a firm surface, safe crossing points, no stiles, and most importantly is free from motorised traffic. There are links to the Stour Valley Way, The Wessex Ridgeway, The Jubilee Trail, and Hod and Hambledon Hills. Open Access land and nature reserves and woods such as Piddles Wood and Blandford Forest are within easy walking distance of the Trailway. Throughout the year, there is always something of interest for walkers along the Trailway, the focus changing with the progression of the seasons.

See the NDTN maps page for full details of rights of way which are linked to the Trailway.

Useful Links:-

northdorsetramblers.org.uk

Walking in North Dorset
www.Dorsetforyou.com

www.walkingindorset.co.uk

The Haines Wilson Bridge over The Stour. Footpath ten, off the Shillingstone section of the trailway, gives access to The Stour Valley Way and Hambledon Hill.

Bridleway Ten From Hine Town Lane, Shillingstone, gives access to the Trailway and footpath ten, east to The Stour Valley Way and Hambledon Hill.